QUEENS' ERGS 2019

Sunday 10th November

Determination of Race Winner

- The fastest upper novice division crew will be the crew that completes the 8x 500m fastest in the final, having qualified in the top 12 of their division. In the event of a tie between two crews, the fastest average time between the qualifying and final races will be taken. In the event this fails to distinguish between the crews, a tie will be declared between them.
- The fastest lower division crew is the crew with the fastest time for the 8x 500m. In the event of a tie between two crews, then the winning team will be that with the lowest spread of individual times. If this is not sufficient to break the tie, then a tie will be declared.
- The fastest novice individual (male and female) will be the rower with the fastest time in either the qualifying rounds, lower division races or the novice final. In the event of a tie, the lightest rower will be declared the winner.
- The fastest senior division crew will be the crew that completes the 8x 500m fastest. In the event of a tie between two crews, then the winning team will be that with the lowest average of the spread of the mens' individual times and the spread of the females' individual times. If this is not sufficient to break the tie, then a tie will be declared.

Definition of a Tie

The experimental error of each erg's time is ± 0.1 seconds. Therefore, if the difference between two average 500m split times is less than or equal to 0.2 seconds, then they will be deemed to have tied. The same principle holds for individual 500m split times.

Novice Prizes

- The fastest upper novice crews (both male and female) will receive engraved glass tankards.
- There will be prizes given to the fastest male and female rower.
- The fastest lower division male and female crews will receive 2 bottles of prosecco per crew.

Definition of a Novice Crew

A Novice crew is one in which no rower has rowed in any competitions for the three years prior to October of the current year, and have no competitive points as defined by British Rowing. Exemptions are on an individual basis and at the discretion of the Erg Competition Presidents. Please contact us if this is applicable to members of your crew.
